THE TROUBLE IS BLOWING OVER

No Likelihood of Trouble Between France and Germany

IN REGARD TO MOROCCO

Relations Less Strained—The Dispute: However, Tested the Diplomatic Resources of Both Governments to the Limit.

AMICABLE ADJUSTMENT COMING

Paris, June 20.—An international conference for the consideration of the affairs of Morocco is now practically assured as the result of the conversations between Premier Rouvier and Prince Randolin, the German ambassador, and attention is now directed to defining the scope of the conference. Details are being rapidly arranged and the officials expect to be able to announce the plans for the conference in the course of four or five days.

This result, after the severe strain which tested the diplomatic resources of both governments, has the effect of relieving the tension the officials of the foreign office and the diplomats of the German embassy agreeing that an amicable adjustment is near at hand.

Although the acceptance of the conference gives a certain measure of success to German diplomacy, yet M. Rouvier emerges from the controversy with the advantage of having brought Germany to exactly to define the scope of the conference and so to rid it of the objection of being a menace to French interests.

Although the basis of the conference has not yet been settled, it is understood that the two governments substantially agree on some of the main features involved.

Germany has shspected that France has designs upon the sovereignty of Morocco but the negotiations disclosed that France had not questioned this sovereignty. Similarly it was disclosed that France has not designed to interrupt the present territorial or political status quo of Morocco. This appears to have been one of Germany's chief apprehensions as any change in Morocco's status quo must involve an ultimate French protectorate similar to that over Tunis.

With both governments favorable to the sovereignty of Morocco and her territorial and political status quo, it remains for the conference to adjust the equality of commercial rights as Germany desires this assurance from an international conference instead of through the operation of the Anglo-Frech agreement. Therefore, the conference is not likely to consider changes in the political status of Morocco, but rather internal reforms and commercial privileges.

A dispatch to the Temps from Metz says that the Sixteenth German army corps is showing less activity than the Twentieth and Sixth French army corps, as the Sixteenth German army corps has been continually on a war footing and is prepared for immediate mobilization. The dispatch says that the inspection of troops has been active on both sides. However this activity has been less marked recently as all eyes have been turned towards Paris in the expectation of a favorable result of the diplomatic negotiations.

Japs Advancing Russians Losses Heavily.

Tokio, June 20.—The Japanese advances in Manchuria are again in progress after four and a half hours fighting on Sunday with the Russian division from Liao Yang Wooen.

During the engagements the Japanese drove the Russian garrison from Lobhuanaon and Mabeia Pass westward. These points are held by cavalry numbering 7,000.

The Russian loss was heavy, while the Japanese loss was insignificant.

St. Petersburg, June 20.—The czar has consented to receive officially the whole deputation from the Zemstvo and municipal congress at St. Petersburg Sunday afternoon. This is the most important concession of the czar for many years and it may mark the beginning of a new epoch in Russian hostery. The czar is much agitated in anticipating the meeting

USELESS WASTE OF MONEY

In Stocking the River With Young Fish Under Existing Conditions.

Capt. Thomas E. Clark put ten thousand salmon in the river at Clearfield last week. They were furnished him by the United States goverment and sent from St. Vincent, N. Y.

From the above it might be inferred that in a few years there will be salmon to catch, some of which may get down the river as far as Lock Haven. But since the German carp which subsist on the spawn of other fish, have been placed in the river and the factories along the streams run there poisonous refuse into the stream, there are few if any fish left in the river. The time was when a fellow could cast his line almost anywhere in the stream and get pull after pull on his line from a gumey bass or perch or in rainy weather and muddy water he could secure a mess of nice 'catties." But things are different now. You can sit in the sun all day long and get nary a bite from a fish. In clear water you can frequently see an ugly big 20 or 30 pound carp lazily move to and fro wagging his tail at your baited hook, but he will never take it. He prefers the spawn of the choice varieties of fish which are laid along the shore bottoms and with the aid of the corporations whose plants are located along the river the favorite finny denizens of the river about Lock Haven have been well nigh exterminated. About the only thing left to come and take your hook, are the measily worthless slimy little river alligators which infest the river and also live on fish spawn. Lock Haven Democrat.

In this connection the Watsontown Record and Star says:

"The pollution of the West Branch continues unabated and unless something is done soon to prevent the mills and factories from draining their poisonous refuse into the river there will be no fish to catch. On Saturday the water was as black almost as mine water said to have been caused by the discharge of refuse dye stuffs from the dye works at Williamsport. The stocking of the stream is a waste of money and time so long as this state of affairs is allowed to exist and it might be added as long as German carp and river alligators infest the river.

The Rise of Japan.

A few years ago the great European nations gave little heed to Japan. They made their moves on the checkerboard of international diplomacy without even consulting the Mikado's government. Plans were even suggested for the dismemberment of China, but Japan was never taken into account. Europe thought she was master of Asia, and so she was.

But things are different now, says the Scranton Republican. A new power has arisen in the East. Japan has caught the spirit of progress and now steps proudly forward and takes her place in the front ranks of the nations of the world. She is now a power to be reckoned with and the other nations will be careful not to impose upon her.

The rise of Japan puts a new phase on the situation in the East. There will no longer be talk on the part of European nations about partitioning China among themselves. They have abandoned that dream already, for none of them, after witnessing Russia's fate, will be anxious to contest with Japan for supremacy in the East.

Marvelous indeed has been the rise of this new world-power. It was generally known that the Japanese were progressing, but few realized the heights to which they had attained. It required a great war to enable them to demonstrate to the world that they are capable of matching themselves against the people of any other nation. There are no better soldiers, no better sailors, than the Japanese, a fact that is now undisputed. This means a great deal, for after all it is might in warfare that today commands the world's greatest respect, talk as men may about the victories of peace.

Harper---Halliday.

Quite a surprise was created among the friends of the groom when the announcement reached here of the marriage of Clarence G. Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Harper, of this place and Miss Olive Halliday, of Lynn, Mass. The wedding occurred on June 6th and was a quiet one, the ceremony being performed by Rev. J. S. Barker. The groom graduated from State College in the class of 1902 and since then has been in the employ of the General Electric company, at Lynn, Mass. His marriage was as much of a surprise to his parents as to his many acquaintances.

RUSSIA HAS ACCEPTED!

Finally Decided to Meet In Washington.

FOR PEACE TERMS.

Waives Its Request for Reconsideration at the Personal Direction of the Emperor.

DESIRES PRESIDENT TO HAVE CHANCE.

St. Petersburg, June 20.—9:35 p. m.—Russia has finally and definitely accepted Washington as the meeting place of the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries, the foreign office having waived its request for re-consideration at the personal direction of the emperor, whose desire to give the fullest and fairest opportunity to President Roosevelt's proposal for a peace conference is hereby manifested.

After his conference with Ambassador Meyer, Count Lamsdorff, the foreign minister, went last night to Peterhof and laid the matter before the emperor, who, on learning that insistence on The Hague might endanger the negotiations, directed Count Lamsdorff to inform Ambassador Meyer that Russia would accept Washington.

It was after midnight when the foreign minister returned from Peterhof, but Ambassador Meyer was forthwith notified and a cipher despatch was prepared and sent to the state department at Washington at an early hour Saturday morning.

Count Lamsdorff Saturday afternoon issued a public announcement of the selection of Washington.

The result is looked upon as a decided triumph for American diplomacy.

In certain quarters here envy and jealousy of the United States are ill-concealed. The entire collapse of the negotiations were predicted yesterday and there was almost open exultation at what was declared to be a "rebuff to Roosevelt" Even in peace circles gloomy faces were drawn at the report that Russia would insist upon The Hague; but thanks to the personal attitude to the emperor and to the well put representations of Ambassador Meyer, the threatened diplomatic mountain has decressed to a mole hill over which negotiations can now proceed rapidly. The Gazeta, which is known to be the mouthpiece of the foreign office, declares that nothing is yet known regarding Japan's terms. It intimates that Russia may not balk at an indemnity significantly stating that international control of the Chinese eastern railroad is possible as a means of insuring payment of an indemnity. It says that the plenipotentiaries will have special powers and may be authorized to conclude peace.

Although the way has thus far been smoothed for a peace conference, the operations in Manchuria appear to be in full march toward a big engagement, the Japanese having pushed forward as far as Liaoyangwopeng west of the Li river thirty three miles north of Fakumen.

The Japanese have strong forces here as well as in the rear of Lieutenant General Linevitch's advance detachments near Chantufu, and even threaten the flank of the fortified positions at Sipinhai, where General Linevitch intended to offer battle but from which he pushed far to the southward during the months of inactivity on the part of the Japanese army. It is not known here whether General Linevitch will retire slowly on these positions or whether as he intimated recently in an interview with the correspondent of the Associated Press, he intends to meet the Japanese flanking counter offensive movement.

The Cuban Patriot Dead.

Havana, June 20.—General Maximo Gomez, who had been ill for some weeks, died Saturday night. The general's family and his old friend Estrado Palm, president of the Republic of Cuba were present at his death.

The end came peacefully at the seaside home of the general and his family.

The distinguished patient's heart had been growing weaker for ten hours and refused to respond to stimulants. He had previously shown remarkable recuperative powers and it was hoped his life could be prolonged, but there was nothing that would change the course of his last hours. His health had been failing for several months prior to his real illness.

A MINE BRAKEMAN KILLED.

John Lovell, Jr. of Winburne, Meets a Sad Death on Saturday Night.

John Lovell, Jr., was killed in Sommerville & Co's No. 9 mine at Winburne shortly before 10 o'clock on Saturday night. He was a brakeman, and was riding on the front end of a motor, which run into some empty cars, crushing and mangling him so badly that death resulted almost instantly. The young man was aged 24 years, and leaves a wife and two children, one a baby only two weeks old, besides his parents and other relatives. He was a young man of pleasing qualities, held in very high esteem, and his sad death has cast a gloom over the community in which he lived.

Philadelphia and its Mayor.

Ralph D. Paine, writing for Collier's of June 17, describes the municipal awakening of the old Quaker town and tells how its public citizens forced their Mayor and Councilmen to defeat an iniquitous "grab" by the United Gas Improvement Company. Concluding the story of the fight he says:

Just how Philadelphia felt on the night of May 26 is reflected in these words from the address of former Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith, a Republican, and the editor of the Philadelphia "Press."

"You are justified in saying to your representatives, 'You can not safely betray us We demand that you shall stand with the people against the plunderers We shall observe the law. We shall respect the restraints of an orderly community. But if you persist in trying to bind us in the grasp of bandits, we shall show you how self-respecting and self-defending men can deal with you. Make your choice.'"

On that night the "honor roll" included the names of twenty-two Common Councilmen and seven Select Councilmen who had deserted the Machine, won over by personal pressure, by the "social boycott," by the influence of their constituents, to whom they had never before paid any heed, The Mayor needed a total of nineteen more votes to uphold his coming veto. He was sure to get them within the next five days. On this Friday he was fairly mobbed when he appeared on the street. No citizen of Philadelphia has been more honored by spontaneous tribute of the crowds. From the windows of the offices in the Betz building "Izzy" Durham, a beaten Boss, saw John Weaver, "his Mayor," fight a way through shouting thousands,

The victory came on Saturday, May 28, when the U. G. I. Company withdrew its offer to pay the city $25,000,000 for the privilege of extending its lease fifty-three years after its termination in 1927. President Dolan of the Gas company tried to persuade Durham to keep his word and jam the bill through in the face of the revolution. But Durham saw clearly that such folly would wreck his Machine beyond repair, and he advised surrender. It was his one shrewd stroke, for it was thus made to appear that the Gas company had struck its colors to popular opinion. But Durham's attempt to "save his face" was futile. Two days later, the Vares, two brothers who had held the southern part of the city in the hollow of their hands for the Machine, came out for the Mayor. The rout was complete.

Weaver was sobered by the size of his victory. He said to an adviser: "I am afraid this means danger. I don't know what it means. It can't be that we have really smashed them almost overnight."

Nevertheless, John Weaver, for whom the clergy were praying three months ago that the Lord would give him moral courage and backbone, is at the head of the Republican organization of Philadelphia, Mayor in fact, and the biggest man in the Keystone State. The grafters were not only routed but despoiled. Confident of success, leaders, councilmen, lieutenants had bought U. G. I. company stock at 120 and saw it crush down to 103. This disaster "broke" some of the fattest purses within the shadow of City Hall. Mayor Weaver has until 1907 to build up his organization. Around him will rally the bulk of the Republican and independent forces.

SHOOTING AT DUBOIS!

James T. Chambers, the Well Known Horseman a Victim.

THREE WERE WOUNDED

At Logan House in DuBois—James Chambers and Son Will, and James Harvey Were Wounded.

ASSAILANT WAS ALMOST MOBBED

Three men, James T. Chambers, proprietor of the Logan House, DuBois, Pa., his son, Will Chambers, and a man named William Harvey, were shot Monday evening about seven o'clock by Brint Roland a tough character of the above mentioned town, who narrowly escaped being lynched. Roland is now in the lock-up. Mr. James Chambers was shot in both legs, his son was shot in the forehead and Mr. Harvey in the leg.

Roland was creating a disturbance in the Hotel and young Chambers tried to persuade him to go away, Mr. Chambers heard the altercation and ordered his son into the house to avoid possible disaster. Roland persisted in his annoyance. A witness saw Roland reach in his pocket and draw a revolver and immediately commence firing with his weapon tilted slightly downwards. The son on hearing the shooting ran to his fathers assistance and received a bullet in the face, and Harvey being in range received a slight wound in the leg above the knee.

Roland ran out to the street, but was met there by another son, Walter Chambers, who had been sitting on the opposite side and saw some of the assault. Walter knocked Roland down and a crowd of angry men closed in who would probably have beaten him to death except for the timely appearance of the Burgess with three police officers who scattered the crowd and restored order. Drs. Sullivan and Fugate gave the wounded men attention.

In speaking of the would-be murderer the Journal of that place say:

Brint Roland, the man who tried to make a murderer of himself, is a married man and has a family. His wife lives at Rockton with her parents. His mother lives out on VanTassel avenue, and both the wife and mother of the man are spoken of in the highest terms, but Brint has always been a worthless fellow who has many of the instincts of the hobo within him. It was not thought, however, that he would ever become dangerous enough to kill. It was thought that drinking, shiftlessness and laziness were the worst of his crimes, but he showed the red hand Monday.

The Logan house, under the management of Mr. Chambers, has always been a very model hotel. There are no houses in the city that are conducted along better lines than this, and Mr. Chambers has always exercised the greatest of care in the running of the bar. The whole affair was one that nothing which the proprietor could have done would have prevented.

Last night both of the Messrs. Chambers were resting easy and it is not thought that there will be any fatalities on account of the shooting. Two of the shots which took effect in Mr. Chambers' leg past entirely through, inflicting wounds in the other leg, making five bullet wounds in all. The ball in the ankle, near the heel of the foot, had not been removed Monday night.

James T. Chambers is well known in this place, being a brother of Col. E. R. Chambers, Assistant Postmaster William Chambers and George Chambers. He is quite a prominent horseman.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

State Fisheries Association now Meeting in Bellefonte.

A meeting of the State Fisheries Association of Pennsylvania is being held in Bellefonte Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week. The delegates began to gather on Tuesday and those who had arrived up to Wednesday noon are Hon. Wm. E. Meehan, Commissioner of Fisheries, Harrisburg; Col. John W. Hogue, Pittsburg; Andrew R. Whittaker, Phoenixville; Chas. L. Miller, Altoona; J. L. Nimick, Ridgway; W. C. Henry, Parkside; J. Blair Yarnell, Snow Shoe; Hon. George M. Reynolds, member of Congress, of Bedford, Pa. About twenty delegates will be in attendance all together. Their headquarters are at the Bush House.

The report of the department for the six months ending May 31 was made public Wednesday by Commissioner Meehan.

From Dec. 1 to June 1 there were hatched and distributed from the five hatcheries 145,157,918 fish, with probably several millions more eggs hatching after that date. From all appearances, at the end of the calendar year the output will exceed that of any year in the history of fish culture in Pennsylvania and exceed by many millions the best efforts of any other state last year. Of the fish hatched and distributed the last six months 124,079,000 were white fish, lake herring, wall-eyed pike and blue pike 8,950,000 pickerel, 8,800,000 brook and lake trout and 3,326,900 shad.

The fish wardens made 202 arrests and secured 185 convictions and the imposition of fines amounting to $3920. Seventeen cases were discharged and seventeen defendants went to jail, nine in lieu of payment of fines.

The board confirmed the appointments of Wm. Haas and W. H. Safford as superintendents of two of the three new hatcheries authorized by the Legislature.

A committee of citizens have charge of the visitors and will see that they are taken care of while in the city. Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock they were driven out to the hatchery where they inspected the state property there. At 12:30 lunch was served at the Hatchery as guests of the Board of Fisheries Commission. Wednesday afternoon there was a business meeting and in the evening they were entertained at the Nittany Country club. This morning there will be a meeting at the Bush house and in the afternoon a visit to Penns Cave. Friday the association will devote to fishing in the streams adjacent to Bellefonte.

The officers of the association are: President, W. E. Meeham, of Harrisburg: First Vice President, W. C. Watson, Warren; Second Vice President, C. G. Dorn, Bradford; Secretary, J. W. Hogue, of Pittsburg; Corresponding Secretary, B. D. Evans, Harrisburg; Treasurer, W. H. Reed, Norristown.

Saving Time.

The man who makes two blades of grass grow where there had been but one is proverbially a public benefactor. Similarly, perhaps, the man or the agency that adds to the ease of life or the facility of its active operations deserves recognition. Such, in effect, is the Pennsylvania Railroad in its new service to and from the West, and the fact that it is a corporation, seeking primarily to increase its revenues, need not detract from acknowledgment.

To most persons, perhaps, the sensational reduction of the New York-Chicago running time to eighteen hours appeal in much the same way as a record-breaking automobile trip—an interesting and somewhat exciting achievement. But it is much more. It brings the commercial centre of the middle west three or four hours nearer to Philadelphia and New York; and thus saving of precious time is multiplied infinitely through its effect upon business activities and intercommunication.

Once more, and conclusively, the Pennsylvania railroad has proved its title to the term "standard"—a title won in the most intense competition for supremacy in equipment and operation. Some of the policies of the management in the past have proved mistaken; but no one can question that in physical results, such as improved construction and progressive schedules, the Pennsylvania sets the pace for all its rivals. —Editorial in Philadelphia North American, June 14.

Two Dyspeptics

If you are too fat it is because your food turns to fat instead of muscle—strength. If you are too lean the fat producing foods that you eat are not properly digested and assimilated.

Lean, thin, stringy people do not have enough Pepsin in the stomach, while fat people have too much Pepsin and not enough Pancreatine.

STATE COLLEGE GRADUATES 95

Interesting Exercises Mark Wednesday's Proceedings.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE

United States Commissioner of Education in Commencement Address. Speaks of Marvelous Growth of Institution.

COMMENCEMENT A GREAT SUCCESS.

Wednesday marked the forty-fifth commencement at the Pennsylvania State College, when the class of 1905 bade farewell to its alma mater and will henceforth struggle for recognition in the hall of practice.

The exercises were held in the auditorium of the college, an immense terra cotta structure of Greek architecture, which sits in a grove of tall maples and reminds one of the classic groves with their temples of learning sighed for by Plato.

There are this year ninety-five men in the graduating class, very evenly divided in the courses of electrical, mechanical and civil engineering, in which the State College stands very high, even when judged by high standards of the purely technical colleges.

MARVELOUS GROWTH.

The growth of this institution has been nothing short of marvelous when it is considered that the college started to impart an agricultural education almost exclusively. William T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education, who delivered the commencement address, emphasized this fact very strongly when he announced that at the time of the inception of the State College there were in the United States but 203 agricultural students, and that today there are enrolled in the various colleges and schools where a course in agriculture is given, more than 7,000 students.

The subject of Mr. Harris' address was "The Evolution of Scientific Education in the Nineteenth Century." "In the year, 1874," said the speaker, "there were but 600 students enrolled in colleges to every 1,000,000 of population in this country. In 1899 there were 1370 students to the same number of population, and to-day the ratio is growing with wonderful rapidity."

At 10 o'clock the Senior Class marched from the Chapel to the auditorium, preceded by the color sergeant of the cadet corps with an immense silken American flag. It was a thrilling sight to see the graduating class in cap and gown march down the long aisle of the auditorium with the student soldiers at their head.

TALKS ABOUT JAPS.

After the invocation, pronounced by Rev. James O. Denniston, an oration on "Japanese Character" was delivered by George Linton Christman. "The most striking characteristic of the Japanese," he said, "is their inherent philosophy. A philosophy which makes suicide honorable and abolishes a fear of death in any form. Even after a bloody battle there is little or no emotion shown by those who have lost dear ones in the fight. The suffering is there, probably just as poignant sorrow as is felt by Occidental nations, but such is their stoicism that not a tear is shed or a note of mourning sounded.

"While we must all admire the Jap for his readiness, bravery and promptness we cannot blind ourselves to his bad traits, his lack of morality and absence of commercial integrity. It is a notorious fact that such is the Japs' lack of honesty and sincerity in dealing that no western merchant will deal with him direct."

Jerome John Moran followed with an address on the "Teacher of To-day," in which he laid stress upon the fact that sincerity of purpose and honesty of endeavor is more essential to the successful teacher than all other attributes, with the exception of common sense. He accentuated the fact that the profession of teacher is one of the most important, inasmuch as it is the teacher who comes in contact with the race at a time when their minds are most impressionable and they are most amenable to exterior influences.

GENIUS OFTEN DECRIED.

Richard DeCharms Barclay, of Philadelphia, spoke on "Our Standard of Judgment."

"Christ preached a new doctrine," said he, "and even His friends said He was beside Himself. What then are we today who shall decry a new idea no matter how ludicrous it may seem to us. Those who lead the world to better things are always thought mad. Columbus was thought insane and had Marconi put forth his belief in wireless telegraphy 100 years ago he would have been laughed at. We should ask ourselves the question before we scoff at a new theory, 'Are you crazy or am I?'"

In his plea for pure food R. H. H. Aungst announced that in this country to-day there are six firms turning out tons of bogus coffee annually, that the majority of the sardines, so-called, are caught on the coast of Maine, and are put up in cotton seed oil. Oleo, according to Mr. Aungst, is disposed of in this country at the rate of 40,000,000 pounds annually and that formaldehyde preservatives in milk are responsible for the death of 500,000 every year.

A PRETTY JUNE WEDDING.

Marriage of Miss Grace Forshey and Charles Waldron.

Wednesday morning at 8 o'clock, with the bright June sunshine adding gladness to the scene, a pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Jonathan Forshey, the occasion being the marriage of one of their estimable daughters, Miss. Grace E., to Charles Waldron, of Glenloch, Chester county. Rev. Alfred Kelly, of the latter place, a particular friend of the groom's, performed the ceremony, Miss Nellie Forshey, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid, and George Peters acted in the capacity of best man. Only the immediate friends were present. After congratulations, refreshments were served, and at 10:12 the happy couple departed on a honeymoon trip to Cape May and other places of interest, after which they will take up housekeeping at Glenloch, where the groom has erected a new home and had the same nicely furnished.

The bride, who has been one of Philipsburg's most successful school teachers for several years, is one of that town's most excellent young ladies, fitted in every way for her new position in life. The groom is an amiable and most worthy young man.

A Pretty Noon Wedding.

On Tuesday at high noon a very pretty nuptial event occurred at the home of W. H. Bartholamew, of Centre Hall. It was the occasion of the marriage of Mr. Bartholamew's niece, Miss Annie Bartholamew, to Mr. H. J. Kittelberger, a business man of Curwensville, Pa. The ceremony was performed at high noon by Rev. G. W. McIlnay, of Spring Mills, in the presence of the immediate families of the contracting parties.

The bride is the daughter of R. F. Bartholamew, deceased, and has always made her home with her uncle at Centre Hall. She is a bright and attractive young lady and will make her husband an excellent helpmate through life. The many beautiful presents she received was a testimonial of the high esteem in which she is held.

The groom is one of Curwensville's best and most substantial business men and we predict for both of them a bright future.

They departed on an afternoon train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and Toronto, Canada, followed by the best wishes of a large circle of friends.

Quality vs. Quality.

Hard muscles and strong body do not depend on the quantity of food you eat, but on its perfect digestion and proper assimilation. When you take Kodol Dyspepsia Cure your system gets all the nourishment out of all the food you eat. It digests what you eat regardless of the condition of the stomach and conveys the nutrient properties to the blood and tissues. This builds up and strengthens the entire system. Kodol cures Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Belching, Sour Stomach, Weak Heart, etc. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure for what is sometimes called America's national disease—Dyspepsia — is destined to work a wonderful and lasting benefit to sufferers from this distressing and mind harassing condition. Nolan—Kelleher.

The marriage of Daniel J. Nolan, formerly of Bellefonte, but now of Curwensville, and Miss Eleanor M. Kelleher, of Tyrone, was solemnized with nuptial mass in St. Matthew's Catholic church at Tyrone Wednesday morning at 6 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. M. Kelly, the pastor of the church.

As a coming event the wedding had been kept a profound secret by the young couple and even their closest friends were not aware of the approaching nuptials until the evening before they were celebrated. It was a quiet observance with only a few friends present. Miss Kate Sharp as bridesmaid and Thomas Conaghan as groomsman, attended the young couple. After the sacrament the wedding party went to the home of the bride's mother on Washington avenue, Tyrone, where a wedding breakfast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Nolan will reside at Curwensville where the former is a trusted employe of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. His bride is an especially bright and worthy young lady.

This paper joins with the many friends of the young couple in wishing them a safe and prosperous voyage on the sea of matrimony.

Ten Years In Bed.

R. A. Gray, J. P., Oakville, Ind., writes: "For ten years I was confined to my bed with disease of my kidneys. It was so severe that I could not move part of the time. I consulted the very best medical skill available, but could get no relief until Foley's Kidney Cure was recommended to me. It has been a God-send to me."—Sold by C. M. Parrish.

THE ACADEMY CENTENNIAL

Famous Old School in the Mountains Celebrates Its 100th ANNIVERSARY

Eloquent Address by Hon. Charles Emory Smith---Interesting Address by Dr. Atherton---Historical Sketch by J. Thomas Mitchell,

THE GOLD AND WHITE ASSEMBLY

If Col. John Dunlop and James Harris; the founders of Bellefonte, and the donors of the property on which the Academy now stands, could have opened their eyes and been transported back to Academy Hill, Thursday, and beheld the beautiful Academy of today and brilliant surroundings they would have felt well rewarded for their generosity and thoughtfulness.

The centennial reception, the opening feature of the one hundredth anniversary of the old Academy was held Thursday evening from 7 until 10:30 o'clock and the scene when the festivities were in progress was one of the most beautiful imaginable. The beautiful new building which has arisen Phoenix-like from the ashes of last July's fire was magnificently illuminated. All around the exterior wall of the building were strung electric light globes, every room from the top to the bottom floor was lighted up and the grounds were brilliantly illuminated with several hundred Japanese lanterns. The building occupying as it does a commanding position was visible from any part of town and many admiring eyes were cast in its direction

The interior of the building was also made very pretty with spruce, flags, bunting and an endless variety of sweet scented flowers. The large porch and entrance to the building was illuminated by two arc lights and over the main entrance door in electric lights were the words "Welcome Alumni."

The guests began to arrive as early as seven o'clock and from that time until 9 o'clock there was a steady stream of people, old students and friends of the Academy. They were cordially received by Prof. Hughes, the faculty and the reception committee of ladies headed by Mrs. J. R. Hughes, Miss H. E. C. Overton, Miss I. S. Hill, Miss R. P. Lyon, Miss Ruth Case, Mrs. E. H. Meyers and others.

During the entire evening Stopper & Fiske orchestra from Williamsport rendered choice music. Choice refreshments were served by Caterer Joseph Ceader

At about 8 o'clock Prof. James R. Hughes called for quiet and God's blessing was invoked upon the gathering by Rev. William Laurie D. D. LL. D., of the Presbyterian church. Rev. James P. Hughes, the venerable Principal Emeritus, then arose and delivered a welcome address. For thirty-seven years he has been principal of the Academy He spoke of the great achievements made at the Academy since 1860, when he took charge of the institution. He pointed with pride to the good and great men who had left its threshold and who have been an honor to themselves and the community wherever they located. He cordially welcomed the guests who had come to participate in the exercises of the two days.

The response was made by Judge Ellis L. Orvis, who laid the foundation of his education at the Academy. He reviewed with interest the gradual growth of the Academy from the time he was a student. He stated that there were better things in store for it in the future than in the past, and predicted that some day it would be a great educational centre.

After a selection by the orchestra centennial poems were read, the authors being Edward Uffington Valentine, author of "Hecla Sandwith," and W. T. McIntyre.

This was followed by the audience singing the centennial song, composed and orchestraed by Dr. Lee B. Woodcock of Scranton. The reception proper and the Academy campfire then took place when quite a number of old students exchanged happy reminiscences of the school days on the hill.

On Friday morning the guests were taken around the town and shown the places of interest Some of them went to the fish hatchery and the cave. In the afternoon the exercises were held in the opera house at 2 o'clock to which the public was cordially invited. Addresses were made by Gen. James A. Beaver, J. Thomas Mitchell and Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press.

The centennial anniversary of the founding of the old historic Bellefonte Academy came to a successful close Friday with the splendid intellectual feast in the opera house in the afternoon and the brilliant Gold and White assembly in the Armory in the evening. The centennial throughout has been highly successful and was the crowning feature in the history of this school. This institution is one of three in the state that can celebrate its one-hundredth birthday this year, and we are justified in saying that none of them has given to the world a better and more thorough class of men than the local academy nestled in the mountains of old Centre county, the intellectual hub of the state.

The program Friday morning for the Alumni and friends included visits to places of interest about Bellefonte, including the State Fish Hatchery, Penns Cave, the big Spring and Point McCoy.

In the afternoon an audience composed of Bellefonte's most intelligent people gathered in the opera house and listened to a literary feast of the highest order. The only regret is that the opera house was not crowded, as it is not often the privilege of a Bellefonte audience to partake of such a treat.

Stopper & Fiske orchestra played a delightful overture after which the introductory address was delivered by Gen. James A. Beaver. He congratulated the Academy on its growth and the support it had received from the people of Bellefonte and Centre county and prophesied a bright future.

Gen. Beaver in introducing the first speaker of the afternoon, J. Thomas Mitchell Esq., who delivered the Historical address, referred to the fact, that in looking around for a local historian they had found a worthy successor to Hon. John Blair Linn, in the person of Mr. Mitchell who by the way was a direct descendant of one of the founders of the Academy.

Mr. Mitchell delivered an excellent address, giving a carefully prepared history of the rise and progress of the Academy from the time it was founded by Col. John Dunlop and James Harris, in 1805 up to the present time. He referred to the first principals Rev. H. R. Wilson, the first regular ordained minister in this section of the state and his successor the Rev. James Linn. He gave many other interesting facts, He highly complimented the Hughes, Rev. James P. and his son Prof. James R. Hughes for their highly successful management of the institution.

Dr. George W. Atherton, the President of the Pennsylvania State College, then delivered an address on "Education under State Control" He referred to the fact that he and the orator of the day, Hon. Charles Emory Smith had taught together in an New England Academy in their younger days. He said "higher education has always been recognized in every country. When our forefathers planted the seeds of freedom in this country they established colleges and schools for the enlightenment of the people. Education is the training of man and woman for life."

Hon. Charles Emory Smith editor of the Philadelphia Press, former Postmaster General under McKinley and later Minister to Russia, then delivered the principal address of the afternoon. His subject was "The Academy as an Independent Factor in Education." He spoke at length but no one tired of it, for it was the most brilliant and forceful oration ever listened to in Bellefonte. Abounding in flowery language and word paintings of exquisite beauty it was a treat "fit for the Gods." He complimented the Academy on the progress it had made in its hundred years of life. He showed that while the State is caring for the common schools, higher education must be left largely to voluntary and independent effort and thus the Academy becomes an important educational factor, being "the vestibule of the college and the university." He declared that it is the glory of the educated class that its culture has not impaired its manhood or diminished its patriotism and he cited many instances of college men who rendered notable service in public affairs. As the nation is entering upon a new pathway, he expressed the hope that American scholarship might never lack faith in the efficacy of American institutions or the virtue of the American people.

At the close of Mr. Smith's address, many of our leading citizens went forward to shake hands with the brilliant orator and personally thank him for his effort.

The centennial was brought to a fitting close by the Gold and White assembly in the armory. Two hundred people were in attendance and the music was furnished by the Stopper & Fiske orchestra. It was the social event of the season.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., June 21st.

Washington has been chosen as the meeting place of the Russian and Japanese plenipotentiaries and if as the President confidently believes they will negotiate a convention providing for a lasting peace in the far East it will be known as the treaty of Washington taking its place in history with those important international conventions known as "the Treaty of Ghent," the "Treaty of Berlin," the "Treaty of Paris" and many others

The selection of Washington as the meeting place of the commissioners of the beligerents was the natural outcome of the differences which had developed between the two nations. Japan steadfastly declined to send representatives to any meeting place in Europe, other than London, fearing that they would be more or less influenced by the hostile sentiment with which they would be surrounded in Paris, Geneva and perhaps even at the Hague. Russia was, on the other hand, entirely opposed to a meeting in Asia and the United States seemed the natural ground of compromise, being too more nearly half way between the two nations than any other country suggested. President Roosevelt, although he had personally favored the Hague, was not loath to have the conference held here for it must emphasize the diplomatic importance of the capital of "the new world."

It is authoitatively stated that if the climate in Washington proves too warm for the comfort of the plenipotentiaries every facility will be afforded them to meet elsewhere for a time. That is, they will meet and organize in Washington, then adjourn to some northern summer resort and return to the national capital for their closing sessions. If the commissioners determine to adjourn to some cooler point the President will place at their disposal two small naval vessels, presumably the Sylph and the Dolphin. He will himself return from Oyster Bay to welcome them to America but expects to remain but a short time, after which he will again retire to his summer home.

With the question of a place of meeting disposed of the President and the diplomatic representatives of the belligerents have now turned their attention to the question of the date for convening the conference and an announcement on this subject may be looked for daily. It is recalled than when commissioners from the United States and Spain met in Paris it required from October 1 to December 10 to complete their work, although the problems which confronted them were simple by comparison with those which will confront the Russian and Japanese diplomats.

The President has taken a step which does not meet with the entire approval of some of his cabinet but which is likely to be commended by the public at large. He has created a committee, consisting of his most trusted friends in the government service and placed Charles H. Keep, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, at its head. To this committee he has confined the duty of making a thorough investigation of the business methods of every executive department in Washington with two purposes in view, first to ascertain if lax methods of handling finances exist and if so to make recommendations for their remedy, second, to discover, if possible, what if any methods can be adopted to contribute to economical administration, with a special view to preventing further misappropriations of the governments' funds, lands and priyileges.

Americans are known as a dyspeptic people. The extent of this disease may be interred from the multitude of so called "medicines" offered as a remedy. They are often in tablet form and have no value except as palliatives of the immediate effects of dypepsia. The man who used them may feel better but is surely getting worse. They do not touch the real cause of the disease. Dr Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine special prepared to cure diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is not made to give temporary relief but to effect permanent cure. In ninety-eight cases out of every hundred it cures perfectly and permanently.

It has cost Dr Pierce $25,000 to give away in the last year the copies of his People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which have been applied for. This book of 1008 pages is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Address Dr R. V. Pierce Buffalo, N. Y.

COUNCIL MEETING.

An Additional Police Officer Appointed ---Supt. Ryan Made Acting Street Commissioner.

The borough council met on Monday evening with President Jenkins in the chair. The other members present were Fenlon, Seibert, Wise, Keichline, Keller, Derstine and Brown.

Chairman Derstine, of the street committee reported cleaning and repairing different streets and alleys.

Chairman Wise of the Fire and Police committee reported a fire at the jail but no serious damage done.

Burgess Walker returned the Pruner ordinance to council witnout approving or disapproving it. It therefore becomes a law just the same as if he had approved i.

Mrs. Jane Brown's water tax was reduced from $4 to $2 at her request and for good and sufficient reasons.

Chairman Wise of the Fire and Police committee called attention of Council to the bad condition of the floor of the Logan Engine Company's room in the Public building. It was their desire to put in concrete floor and bids were asked. The bids were received from James McCafferty, G. E. Haupt and M. R. Johnston.

The Fire and Police Committee recommended the appointment of an additional police officer at a salary of $40 per month. It also recommended that Col. Mullen be retained at $30 and Geo. Jodon at $40. The recommendation was accepted and approved.

Mr. McCafferty's bid being the lowest for the laying of the concrete floor in the Logan Hose house, Mr. Keller moved that it be accepted. It was so ordered. He is to lay a concrete floor with a 12 inch foundation, 6 inches concrete and 2 inches top finish. The price to be 14 cents per square foot.

The services of Mr. Thomas Shaughnessy as street commissioner were dispensed with and Samuel Ryan, the present Water Superintendent, was appointed acting Street Commissioner for the present, at a salary of 25 cents a day additional. This makes Mr. Ryan's wages $3.00 a day instead of $2,75 a day as heretofore. One-half of his salary is to be paid out of the water fund and one-half out of the street fund.

On the recommendation of the Fire and Police committee William Beezer was appointed a member of the Police force.

The matter of a sewer on High street was referred to the Street committee with power.

The following bills were approved and orders drawn:

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition hearing will be destroyed forever, nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE BATTLE OF THE YALU.

One of the Queer Incidents of This Great Naval Conflict.

This strange incident of a great naval battle was told by Commissioner McGiffin of one of the Chinese warships in the battle of the Yalu between the Chinese and Japanese fleets in 1894: "About this time the Chih Yuen boldly if somewhat foolhardily bore down on the Japanese squadron's line. Just what happened no one seems to know, but apparently she was struck below the water line by a heavy shell, either a ten inch or a thirteen inch. Be that as it may, she took a heavy list, and, thus fatally injured, her commander, Tang Shi Chen, a most courageous albeit a most obstinate officer, resolved at least to avenge himself and charged one of the largest of the enemy's ships, intending to ram.

"A hurricane of projectiles from both heavy and machine guns swept down upon his ship. The list became more pronounced, and just before getting home to his intended victim his ship rolled over and then plunged bow first into the depths. She righted herself as she sank, her screws whirling in the air and carrying down all hands, including her chief engineer, Mr. Purvis, shut up in the engine room. Seven of her crew clung to one of the circular life buoys kept on the bridge and were drifted by the tide toward the coast, where they were rescued by a junk.

"Stories told by these men vary so much as to be unreliable, but all agree on one incident: Captain Tang had a large dog of most vicious temper, unruly at times even with his master. After the ship sank Captain Tang, who could not swim, managed to get an oar or some small piece of wood. This would have been enough to support him had not his dog swum to him and, climbing up on him, forced him to release his grasp. Thus he miserably drowned, and the brute shared his fate, perhaps the only case on record of a man being drowned by his dog."

NEEDS OF THE HAIR.

The Greatest Are Cleanliness, Ventilation and Friction.

The first and greatest needs of the hair are cleanliness, friction and ventilation. Give your halo a sun bath once in awhile, and the silky strands will fairly laugh with happiness. For some crazy reason there are many individuals who will not wash their heads often enough to keep the hair decently clean. We are not water animals and do not need to soak our topknots every day, but it is a pretty plain fact that once every week or two the hair should be carefully washed. If there is an inclination to dandruff or if the hair is subjected to an unusual amount of dust, a weekly shampoo is an absolute necessity.

By using eggs instead of soap there is no danger whatever of causing the hair to become harsh and brittle. Eggs are as cleansing as soap, and the sulphur contained in them acts as a tonic to the growth. When eggs are used the water should be very hot and the hair rubbed vigorously so that the eggs will make good live suds. No soap is necessary.

When the hair persistently suffers from loss of vitality it is usually from one or more of the following causes: Uncleanliness, lack of care, anxiety, worry, late hours, overstudy, want of exercise or disease. Dyspepsia is responsible for many thinned out halos. The hair, being the most delicate of the body's formation, is the first to show that the body is not receiving sufficient nourishment. The use of harmful restoratives or dyes will frequently cause the hair to become gray and broken. One cannot be too careful what one rubs into one's thought dome.

FATS AND DRIPPING.

Those That Should Not Be Used In Making Pastry.

The use of raw suet, lard or mutton fat in pastries is to be avoided, for each leaves an unpleasant after taste. The small pieces of fat trimmed from off the piece of beef that forms the more substantial part of the daily dinner are placed in an iron pan and allowed to simmer four or five hours either in the oven or at the back of the range. The fluid fat is then strained into a small crock or tin pail and set within the refrigerator when sufficiently cooled. Here it will keep fresh indefinitely.

The fat that is skimmed from soups and gravies must never be mingled with the purer fat obtained as just described, because, useful as it is for frying and other purposes, owing to the fact that it is usually flavored with herbs, spices or vegetables of some description, it is not available for pastry. Should the supply of pure fat fail to suffice it can be augmented by the occasional purchase of three or four pounds of beef fat from the butcher's, where it is cut into bits ready for rendering.

The drippings of poultry lend a fine flavor to the fat and add to its richness. A cup of fat or half a cup and the same of butter and a saltspoonful of salt are rubbed to a cream with a wooden spoon. Add four cups of flour and mix with the hands until the mass resembles granulated sugar. Make a hole in the center and pour into the opening a full cup of ice water. Mix quickly and lightly with the spoon and do not knead. This suffices for three pies of ordinary size. Should less be required the remainder can be kept in the refrigerator and utilized for dumplings, tarts, turnovers, etc.

There is nothing so true that the damps of error have not warped it.—Tupper.

CHILDREN FED TO MOLOCH

Dr. Felix Adler Thus Characterizes the Labor of Children.

Humanitarians as well as materialists have raised their voices in protest against the laws that permit the traffic in children's strength at the expense, not merely of the child, but of the community.

Collier's Weekly voices this protest and makes incidental comment upon conditions in Pennsylvania in the following editorial:

Child labor in England began when modern machinery brought a demand for cheap operatives. Then, as Dr. Felix Adler has said, somebody had the idea of shoveling all the unowned and unloved children into factories. "Children were fed to machines as literally as in ancient idolatry they were fed to Moloch." They worked for fourteen hours a day and rotted by the thousand. A parliamentary inquiry showed the case of a seven-year-old boy whose father used to wake him before daybreak, carry him to the mill and leave him there to tend a machine for sixteen hours a day. Women crawled through two-foot galleries on their hands and knees, dragging by a long chain attached to a leather belt a cart holding three hundred or four hundred pounds of coal. "How is it," asked the strong Jewish thinker, "that human beings are capable of such brutality?" Why is it that in England, an Anglo-Saxon country, where woman is supposed to be a kind of goddess, the womanhood was crushed out of little girls and grown women groveled and dragged carts?" Two years ago there were 20,000 children under twelve years of age at work in our southern states. Pennsylvania has 35,000 under sixteen, the greater number of them under twelve. Elizabeth Barrett Browning once asked of England, "How long, oh cruel nation, will you trample on a child's heart?" "This," says Dr. Adler, "is not Russia. What do you think of our own czars of industry?"

ETIQUETTE OF CALLS.

Some of the Things That Are and Are Not In Good Taste.

Every one is aware that a married woman when paying a formal call on another married couple leaves two of her husband's cards in the hall when coming in or going out.

But every one does not know that when the hostess is a widow only one card should be left.

Punctilious people always call at a house from whence they have received an invitation, and this whether it has been declined or accepted. But with the one exception of returning a first call, which should be done as reasonably soon as possible, the question as to what time should elapse between social visits is one that must be left to the good taste and good sense of the caller.

Many people with a large and increasing circle keep a book in which they note the date of their calls, and in this connection it should be stated that it is a compliment to call on the right day—that is, when the hostess is known to be at home to her friends.

It used to be considered the right thing for a formal visit only to last about a quarter of an hour. It not infrequently happens that an idle woman will arrive early and stay late if she happens to be amused and if she has nowhere else to go. Such behavior is particularly inconsiderate when the drawing room of her hostess happens to be a small one and when other visitors are many.

In the country long calls are, of course, permissible, but not in a town.

Again, it is not good taste to make appointments to meet a friend at another friend's house, and yet this is frequently done, to the natural annoyance of the hostess, who feels that her reception room is being used much as might be a station waiting room.—New York American.

Henry VIII. and Puddings.

Bluff King Hal, otherwise Henry VIII. of England, was exceedingly fond of puddings. At one time he gave a certain Mistress Cornwallis a house in Aldgate for herself and her heirs forever "in reward of fine puddings." In King Henry VIII.'s private accounts occur again and again entries of his rewards to different housewives for bringing him puddings. A typical instance runs thus: "Item. The same day paid to the wife that made the king podings at Hampton corte, vis. viijd." This would be about $1.75, but its value was much greater when the entry was made. This love for "fine puddings" explains much in the familiar rotund figure of King Hal.

A Matter of Gender.

The English language is supposed to be very simple in the matter of genders, but foreigners who triumphantly handle questions of gender of inanimate things in their own languages often have their difficulties with the English. A Frenchman recently came to grief over his English. "I fear I cockroach too much upon your time, madame," he remarked politely to his hostess. "En-croach, monsieur," she smilingly corrected him. He threw up his hands in despair. "Ah, your English genders!" he sighed.

Matting.

In sweeping matting always make the strokes across the breadths. Use a soft broom. A harsh, stiff one wears and breaks the fiber. Water rots the fiber of matting, therefore in wiping it wring the cloth very dry. Salt and water will brighten matting. Grease spots can be removed with blotting paper and a warm iron.

ACADEMICIA IN PERPETUA.

Centennial Ode—Bellefonte Academy—1805-1905.

(By Wm. T. MacIntyre, Academy 1899)

How swiftly speed the tense and crowded years
Full of their garnered happiness and woe
Steeped with Pandora's box of hopes and fears
Down through the corridors of time they go.
For us-an hundred years-with backward look
Unfold the pages of a shining book!

Rare days of youth; the blessed haicyon time
Vouchsafed to mortals in the journey long;
From regions far remote, from every clime
Lift we our voices in a festal song—
For Alma Mater greets her children now,
A laureled century upon her brow.

Benign and gracious mother; with us still
May thy enfolding influence remain
A staunch and steady bulwark of the will
Where seas of Wrong forever beat in vain;
A beacon light of culture, whose clear rays
Shine ever stronger through unending days.

Forth from thine hallowed and maternal arms
Full panoplied for Earth's unceasing strife
In arts of Peace or 'midst of war's alarms
Thy children fare in every walk of life.
Hear them, their glad acclaim, joyous and free
Voicing their peans still in praise of Thee!

The God of Effort, in wide circling flight
Winging deep vasts with ever searching eyes
Soars on from peak to peak, from height to height
Incarnate being of a great emprise.
Where'er he lights, Pierian fountains flow
And trees of Wisdom and of knowledge grow.

Here hath he marked in no uncertain way
His approbation of a work well done
Here sees the promise of success always
Where sovereign Progress holds her rules alone.
Sweetness and Light, in all their charms arrayed
Join in the joyous symphony portrayed.

Wreathed with immortal lays and crowned with love,
Fair Alma Mater knows her mission blest
Serene, the God hath flown to realms above,
Yet leaves her in still fairer garments drest
Onward and upward her untrammelled course shall be,
Forever girt with Knowledge, Wisdom, Faith and Charity.

An Enterprising firm of Young Business Men.

Snow Shoe, this county, can boast of probably the youngest firm of coal operators in the country. We refer to Kelly Brothers Jr., composed of John P., and Logan M. Kelly, sons of H. P. Kelly. These young men, one 21 and the other 23, have branched out for themselves and are proving to be hustlers in their line of work, that of coal mining. They have secured leases on valuable tracts of coal land and are pushing the thing for all there is in it.

They have two mines at Cherry Run, No. 4 and 5 now in operation and turning out a fine quality of coal. They have also opened the old No. 8 mine, formerly operated by Berwind, White & Co., but which has been idle for twenty years. The coal from old No 8 is famous for its good quality and commands a ready sale.

Everyone has heard of the original firm of Kelly Brothers, who are still doing a big business in coal, and as these young men in the new firm, are chips off the old block, they bid fair to win as great success as their elders.

Both young men are thoroughly trained in business, one as a bookkeeper and the other a mining engineer.

Centre Hall

(Received last week to late for publication.)

On Tuesday morning as Mrs. Flora Bairfoot was descending the attic stairs she fell breaking one of the bones of her wrist. As all our doctors were out of town Dr. Braucht of Spring Mills was phoned for and soon made his appearance and dressed her injury.

On last Saturday evening a meandering weary willie made his appearance in our quiet town and created considerable disturbance. He soon made the acquaintance of Constable Runkle, who took charge of him and furnished him with lodging in the borough lock-up. Towards morning tiring of his sleeping quarters he undertook to burn his way to liberty, soon the cry of fire was raised, but by the time the officers reached the building he was almost suffocated. He was released and requested to make tracks which he did forthwith glad to escape with his life.

On last Monday evening Esquire Rishel of Farmer's Mills; Howard Rossman, C. P. Long, and Dr. Braucht, of Spring Mills; Edward M. Mauck, and Ezra H. Auman of Millheim; William S. Musser of Lykens and John M. Wieland of Boalsburg were pleasant callers. It being Monday before Full Moon, they were all on the same errand.

The casing for the oil well having arrived drilling has been resumed.

Word reached this place last Tuesday that Rev. Christine, former pastor of the Sinking Creek and Spring Mills Presbyterian churches, died suddenly a few days ago at his home in Ohio His daughter and her husband Thomas Moore of this place were there on a visit at the time of his death.

Abraham Luse who bought one of the Wilson farm's one mile east of the Old Fort is building a new house. Byron Garis is doing the mason work.

Mrs. Wm. Snyder and sons William and Marshal, of State College are visitors at the home of Miss Sadie Snyder.

Mrs. Henry Kunes of Virginia, and little grandchild, are visiting at the home of Mr. Jacob DeLong.

James Eagan who has secured a position at Pittsburg, left his home last Saturday for that place where he expects to make his future home.

Childrens Day exercises were held at Hunters Run Sunday afternoon and at the Disciple church Sunday evening and were well attended by our people notwithstanding the rain and sultry weather.

Mrs Nettie Smith and two children of Johnsonburg, are spending a few weeks with her mother Mrs. F. A. Stover.

Miss Jennie Gardner who has been suffering with rheumatism for the past two weeks, is improving slowly and is able to be around again to attend to her domestic affairs.

Childrens Day exercises were held at the Methodist church at Beech Creek on Sunday at ten o'clock and in the absence of the pastor Supt. I. N. McCloskey delivered quite a fine address which was much appreciated by all present.

Port Matilda.

The childrens day services in the Presbyterian church on Sunday morning was very largely attended and everything was a benefit to all who listened to it.

A. W. Woodring from Tyrone visited his sick mother, Mrs. Michael Woodring, Sunday.

Stuart Jones and family from Philipsburg are visiting his relations in this place. Mr. Jones has been sick for some time.

We are having so much rain that the grass and weeds are getting ahead of the farmers corn.

Miss Sarah Woodring is visiting in Tyrone for a week at her sisters, Mrs. James Reese.

The Port Matilda K. G. E. Cornet band is practicing so as to play a little on the Fourth of July for us. They have had to take in a few new members as some of the old members have been away for a long time.

Prof. D. O. Etters held examination on June 7; 26 in the class; all got certificates; school board hired their teachers on June 17; had 16 applications and only employed six of them; any other district wanting teachers we can furnish them and good ones. All came from our township high school.

Unionville.

George Fisher stopped between trains on Friday on his way to Bellefonte.

John Becker of Philadelphia is stopping at his grandmothers and having a very good time.

Fishing parties go and come but very few fish are to be seen, Guess it is more fun than anything else.

It is announced that the Smith property below the school house has been purchased by Charles Potter.

Mrs. Sophie Stover has had bad news from her son in the West. He has been ill for five weeks and not likely to recover.

Mrs. Plumber Hoover, of St. Paul, is visiting friends in this community while her husband is in a hospital in Philadelphia for treatment.

David Pratt, brother of Riley Pratt, who has been spending a few weeks here with his friends left for his home in Lewistown on Monday evening.

Miss Laura Rumberger is expected home from Phila. this week; we are always glad to see Laura she is a friend to everybody, a very genial, happy disposition and entertains us with her music.

The social held at the home of Mrs. Frances Hall for the benefit of the M. E. church was a very pleasant affair and a success financially. Another social is planned for to be given in the hall on Friday evening.

Willis Hoover of Altoona, brother of Plumber, is also in a Phila. hospital. Willis is quite well known to people here, this being his home originally and his many friends are quite anxious for his recovery, also for his brother's recovery.

The Free Methodist church observed childrens day on Sunday evening. Their exercises consisted of singing and addresses for the children by Rev. Smith, Miss Elda Spotts and Mrs. Dora Spotts, Scripture reading, etc. These were all very good. No decorations were to be seen.

Warm weather is the general complaint now it seems but a short time since everybody said "Oh when will it get warmer." Human nature seems hard to satisfy and indeed it would be impossible for everyone to be satisfied at the same time; so we might just as well try to keep cool as we can.

J. A. Pratt departed on Friday for the western part of the state. He will soon enter a preparatory school at Grove City for a term of eight weeks. This town will sadly miss Mr. Pratt. He was always ready to lend a helping hand to every good cause at home and away from home. It is to be hoped that other young men will rise up and take his place in the church and in public affairs in general.

Childrens exercises were given in the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening in observance of Childrens day. The church was very tastefully decorated with red, white and blue, evergreens, flowers, etc. It made a fine appearance indeed. The children in white looked very pretty. They did very nicely in the exercises with their reciting, singing and reading. The music was good, solos were sung by two girls, Mydie Brower and Effie Hazle, which were both very sweet and well rendered. A duet was given by Mrs. Dr. Irvin and Miss Kate Smith. This was also very nice. Master Baird Irvin deserves especial credit for the work he did compared with the other boys work. The minister, Mr. Bergen, made some flattering remarks and addressed the children. Owing to the excessive heat and the threatening weather the program was not all carried out some numbers were omitted and when the meeting did close it was storming severely and most of the people waited until the rain slacked; some had a long distance to drive.

Clarence Hotel Being Enlarged and Remodeled.

George Kochik, the new proprietor of the hotel at Clarence, is making some extensive additions to his hotel at that place. When Mr. Kachik purchased the property from George Uzzle, the latter had already in view a larger hotel, and had erected just adjoining the old hotel a large frame structure. He did not complete it however and Mr. Kachik took possession on the first of April. The latter has a force of carpenters at work and is converting this building into a new up-to-date hotel. The carpenter work is in charge of Henry Lowery, of Bellefonte, who has with him Herman K. Miller and David Steele, of this place. These men are all first class workmen and a good job is assured. The building will be cased with buff colored brick and will present a mighty fine appearance.

"No, Sir! You cannot palm off any substitutes on me. I've been using August Flower since I was a boy, and I'll have no other."

¶Forty million bottles of August Flower sold in the United States alone since its introduction! And the demand for it is still growing. Isn't that a fine showing of success? Don't it prove that August Flower has had unfailing success in the cure of indigestion and dyspepsia—the worst enemies of health and happiness?
¶Does it not afford the best evidence that August Flower is a sure specific for all stomach and intestinal disorders?—that it is the best of all liver regulators?
¶August Flower has a matchless record of over 35 years in curing the ailing millions of these distressing complaints.

A WONDERFUL CHILD.

John Stuart Mill Was a Genius at Three Years of Age.

At three years of age John Stuart Mill began the study of Greek, with "arithmetic as an evening relaxation," as Samuel Wellington puts it in the Westminster Review.

At eight he began Latin, Euclid and algebra and had to act as tutor to the younger children. He was a stern and efficient tutor.

At twelve he began scholastic logic and political economy—the latter his main lifework.

At fourteen, while paying a long visit to Sir Samuel Bentham in southern France, he learned French as a relaxation from studying two or three hours before breakfast, five hours between breakfast and dinner and two or three in the evening. Being for the time master of his own hours and not subject to a stern father, he took lessons also in his spare hours in music, singing, dancing, fencing and riding, but never became proficient.

At sixteen Mill could speak in debate with adults with ease and freedom. At eighteen he contributed to the Westminster Review. At twenty-one he was made assistant in the India office and received a large salary for those days.

But Mill was bald at twenty-two. He did not marry until he was forty-five. He himself said: "I never was a boy. It is better to let nature have its own way."

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

If you don't want to jeopardize friendship don't lend money to friends.

When we hear of a person who refused to submit to an operation and got well we feel like cheering.

The youngest girl in a family is liable to put on princess airs long after her sixteen-year-old complexion fades.

Elderly men should not judge young men by themselves. Young men and elderly men are entirely different propositions.

The colors in a tree don't appeal to a man so much as the lumber in it, and all the poetry in the world will not change him.

Families should be good and large, so that every member will hear the real truth about himself from at least a half dozen persons.

Old fashioned hospitality is dying out. Perhaps you are to blame for killing off some of it. Did you ever visit often and too long?—Atchison Globe.

Washing Windows.

In washing windows use borax water or borax soapsuds and dry quickly with a soft old cloth. Use plenty of hot water, but do not slop. Kerosene added to the water in which the sashes are washed will make them shine, besides cleansing them rapidly. There are any number of good washing powders and preparations for cleaning glass. Wash a pane at a time, using a clean cloth and tepid water. Polish with newspaper.

The Way to Shine.

The only way to shine, even in this false world, is to be modest and unassuming. Falsehood may be a thick crust, but in the course of time truth will find a place to break through. Elegance of language may not be in the power of us all, but simplicity and straightforwardness are. — Woman's Life.

A Soup Hint.

All the tedious skimming and straining of soup can be avoided if one takes the precaution to put in a small unpeeled onion at the very start and permit it to remain until one is ready to thicken the soup. When lifted out, it will be found that this vegetable has served as a magnet to draw to itself all the floating sediment, leaving the broth as clear as crystal, yet in nowise impairing its nourishing quality.

Lamp Chimneys.

To prevent lamp chimneys from cracking wrap each chimney loosely but entirely in a cloth; place them together in a kettle and cover with cold water. Bring the water to a boil, continue the heat ten or fifteen minutes and then cool off. By this tempering they are toughened against all ordinary lamp heat.

the piece twenty-two inches in width. Face this on the back with turkey red calico. A pocket (1) for hose is made of turkey red box plaited to the bottom of the larger piece. Stitch this to the foundation, gathering the extra fullness at the top of the pocket.

Take the ticking which was cut from the side and bind it with black velvet (that from an old hat answers nicely), then fold it into four parts. Box plait the bottom and stitch to the foundation. This makes four (2) pockets for shoes. Turn over each of the top corners and fasten with a bow of red ribbon. A brass ring is secured at the top to hang the bag by. Fasten it to the inside of clothespress door. The illustration will make the idea clear.

Live In the Sunshine.

Live in the sunshine, don't live in the gloom;
Carry some gladness the world to illume.

Live in the brightness and take this to heart—
The world will be gayer if you'll do your part.

Live on the housetop, not down in the cell;
Open air Christians live nobly and well.

Live where the joys are and, scorning defeat,
Have a good morrow for all whom you meet.

Live as a victor and triumphing go
Through this queer world beating down every foe.

Live in the sunshine—God meant it for you!
Live as the robins and sing the day through.

—Margaret E. Sangster.

The Rivals.

To Love's low voice she lent a careless ear;
Her hand within his rosy fingers lay.
A chilling weight. She would not turn or hear,
But with averted face went on her way.
But when pale Death, all featureless and grim,
Lifted his bony hand and, beckoning,
Held out his cypress wreath, she followed him,
And Love was left forlorn and wondering
That she who for his bidding would not stay
At Death's first whisper rose and went away.

Marinating Steak.

A correspondent asks for directions for marinating round steak to make it tender. Equal quantities of salad oil and vinegar, or, better still, lemon juice, makes a good marinade. Two tablespoonfuls each of the oil and the vinegar well mixed and seasoned is poured into a platter, and the steak is turned several times in the mixture. Leave it to soak for at least six hours. The French make a very elaborate marinade, which gives the meat a delicious flavor. Finely slice a white onion and place it in the dish with several slices of lemon, a bay leaf, a few whole peppers, two cloves, a bit of mace and a sprig of parsley pulled apart with the fingers. Add the oil and vinegar and stir well together.—New York Post.

Enlarged Pores.

For enlarged pores a hot face bath at night is first necessary, always followed by a cold plunge. A few drops of benzoin in the water will aid a cure, and should the face require cleansing during the day some astringent lotion should be used, such as the following: One-half pint of lilac flower water, four ounces of alcohol, two and a half ounces of glycerin, two ounces of sweet almonds (powdered) and one-quarter ounce salicylic acid. Add almonds to perfumed water and shake vigorously. Then add glycerin and the other ingredients and agitate thoroughly. Apply during the day and at night with a soft cloth.

A Story of Li Hung Chang.

In the diary of Sir M. E. Grant Duff is a fine story of Li Hung Chang, whose candor was never quite equaled in this world. He was dining with a Swedish traveler.

"You come from Sweden," said the great man, "don't you?" "Yes," was the reply. "And what kind of country is Sweden?" rejoined the other, whereupon he received, as was natural, a glowing description of its charms. "Ah," he said, "that is very nice; very nice indeed. When I next communicate with the emperor of Russia I will tell him to take Sweden!"

Discovery of the Ichthyosaur.

Ichthyosaurus is a name much jested with because it rivals the mastodon as a most widely known fossil, dating back to its discovery by Sir Edward R. Home, between 1814 and 1819, in the marine deposits of Lyme-Regis, England. The name, signifying "fish lizard," shows that this animal impressed Konig, its describer, as having a fishlike backbone combined with a shoulder girdle of the lizard or saurian type. This term could not have been more happily chosen, because, while retaining the skeleton of an atavistic and extremely ancient lizard, the ichthyosaur evolved a most strikingly modern external likeness to certain very familiar animals of the sea.—Henry Fairfield Osborn in Century.

$500 REWARD FOR WOMEN

WHO CANNOT BE CURED.

So uniformly successful has Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription proven in all forms of Female Weakness, Prolapsus, or Falling of Womb, and Leucorrhea, that, after over a third of a century's experience in curing the worst cases of these distressing and debilitating ailments, Dr. Pierce now feels fully warranted in offering to pay $500 in cash for any case of these diseases which he cannot cure.

IT STANDS ALONE.—The "Favorite Prescription" stands alone, as the one and only remedy for these distressingly common forms of weakness, possessed of such positively specific curative properties as to warrant its makers in proposing, and binding themselves to forfeit, as we, the undersigned proprietors of that wonderful remedy hereby do, to pay the sum of $500 in legal money of the United States in any case of the above diseases in which after a fair and reasonable trial of our treatment, we fail to cure. No other medicine for the cure of woman's peculiar ailments is backed by such a remarkable guarantee; no other medicine for woman's ills is possessed of the unparalleled curative properties that would warrant its manufacturers in making such an offer; no other remedy has such a record of cures on which to base such a remarkable offer.

Therefore, insist on having Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and turn your back on any unscrupulous dealer who would insult your intelligence by attempting to foist upon you some inferior substitute, under the plea that "it is just as good." Insist on having the article which has a record of a third of a century of cures and which is backed by those willing to forfeit $500 if they cannot cure you.

In cases attended by a leucorrheal drain a solution of Dr. Pierce's Lotion Tablets should be used conjointly with the use of the "Favorite Prescription." They are sold by all druggists, or sent post-paid to any address, on receipt of 25 cents in stamps. Send 31 cents in stamps for Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. These reduced rates are in effect on certain dates in months of May to October, inclusive. They apply from all Eastern points via Chicago, St. Louis or Memphis gateways. The Rock Island System will take you up in either Chicago or St. Louis, or at hundreds of other Middle West points and carry you to the Coast in through Standard or Tourist Sleepers with unexcelled Dining Car service. The Rock Island also affords a choice of routes: on the "Scenic" route you can stop off in Colorado—see Salt Lake City—visit Yellowstone National Park; on the "Southern" route you can go via El Paso, thru New Mexico, then "up coast" to San Francisco and on to Portland or Seattle if desired.

In short, these Pacific Coast excursions offer an unusually good chance to see our western country in a comprehensive manner.

If you desire to go only as far as Colorado, there are excursion rates in effect to that section and return, all summer long, specially reduced June 30 to July 4, August 12 and 13, and August 30 to September 4. Extension trips to Ogden or Salt Lake and return at low cost also.

From September 15 to October 31, 1905, one-way tourist or "colonist" tickets will be on sale to California and the Pacific Northwest—about half regular fare.

If interested, send name and address on this coupon, designating which booklet wanted and to what point you plan to go. Name probable date of start also, so we can advise definitely with respect to rates, etc.

DESERVED LARGER AUDIENCE.

A Communication in Regard to Charles EmorySmith.

EDITOR REPUBLICAN.

Pardon me for occupying a little of your valuable space while I briefly give expression to some thoughts in connection with the excellent address of Charles Emory Smith L.L D in the opera house yesterday afternoon

Not in the spirit of criticism, but rather as an apology for Bellefonte, does this question arise: Why could not an arrangement have been made so that this address could have been made in the evening instead of the afternoon? Very many were unable to attend in the afternoon who could and would have been only too glad to have been present in the evening. And without wishing to reflect in the least as to the fitness of the Opera House for the address of our distinguished visitor why should not the Court House have been secured for the occasion.

The opera house gives many persons an idea of exclusiveness which naturally prevents them from entering aside from the fact that in the absence of large posters which should have been placed in prominent parts of the town, very manyspersons formed the impression that an admittance ticket would be necessary and therefore could not or would not be there.

As it was, it is very regrettable that so few availed themselves of an opportunity that does not often come to a community like this,

The writer feels a very deep regret that a large number of the younger people—the boys and girls of the common schools could not have been induced to hear this address.

It could not fail to have been an inspiration to those young minds and must have opened up new visions of the riches contained in the reading of history and created a new interest in its study and research something which is greatly lacking in the times in which we live.

Those of us who were so fortunate as to be present to hear this masterly address, cannot cease to be thankful for the literary treat furnished.

The Dying Bucktails.

One by one the famous bucktails are bivouacking with the dead. Soon history alone will record the deeds that made for them a record which, for valor and victory, has long ago been famed in poem, song and story. Friday, at Curwensville, the body of General William Ross Hartshorn, of Company K, Thirteenth Pennsylvania reserves (Bucktails), was laid in the grave. His was a soldierly mien, a gallant record, a universally admired life. His will be an honored memory, a cherished friendship. He was but 22 years old when he responded to Governor "Andy" Curtin's call for volunteers from his own state's sons, and he was one of the Bucktails who, armed with the deer rifles; went to Harrisburg on a timber raft, floating down the West Branch from amid the Chinklamoose hills.

The history of the Bucktails is the history of a famous regiment, and the sad part of it all is that time has already run to where most of the men who comprised the command, if they have not already gone, stand on the firingline where the great Archer, Death, that invisible, invincible sharpshooter, is picking them off with his silent, unerring quivers.

Many a man throughout Central Pennsylvania will mourn the death of General Hartshorn. Though of late years a resident of Philadelphia, yet the most part of his life was spent in the district of the headwaters of the West Branch. And a pathetic thing about his death and burial is the fact that his wife was so ill at her home in Philadelphia that she could not be present at the obsequies. The sad announcement is made that, before the garlands have wasted on the general's grave she, too, in all probability, will have joined him in eternity.

State College Offers Site for Soldiers Monument.

It is understood that, in view of the objections made in certain quarters to the location of the Soldiers' Monument in front of the Court House and the inaccessibility of any other place proposed, that an offer has been received from the authorities of the Pennsylvania State College, asking the Committee to place it at one of the prominent entrances to the College campus. The fine columns which constituted the entrance to the Pennsylvania mining exhibit at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition have been transferred and re-erected at one of the entrances and this monument at the other would balance them well and would give a fine setting for the monument.

If the people of Bellefonte are anxious to get rid of this monument, there will be no difficulty in finding a place for it. There is no opposition, however, so far as we can understand, on the part of the Commissioners or of any considerable number of the citizens of Bellefonte. It may be said that the monument will be erected in the place assigned to it by the County Commissioners, when the plans were made. As intimated by Mr. Huston Thursday, there is no other locality in or about Bellefonte which would be at all suitable for the monument and it will be erected as planned.

Work on Curtin Monument to Begin at Once.

Joseph M. Huston architect of the Curtin monument visited here Thursday to start the work for the foundations of the Curtin monument and had a meeting with the contractor, Mr. Noll, and the City Surveyor. The work is to be begun at once.

The granite work is nearly completed and the statue of Gov. Curtin has been approved and is being cast in bronze and the two tabletures representing War and Peace have been modeled and are being cast in bronze.

The centre of the monument will be the mathematical centre of the Court House and the building line will be on Allegheny street. The plinth of Gov. Curtin's statue will be the exact building line and also centered with the Court House.

The work is proceeding in all departments and will be completed shortly.

As this location had been selected definitely last fall, it cannot be changed now, as the work has been done with special reference to the location and it would be unsuitable for any other.

Gardner—Williams.

A very enjoyable event was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Williams of Blanchard on Wednesday of last week at high noon. More than one hundred invited guests assembled to witness the ceremony of their only daughter, Mabel, to Milford Gardner of the same place by Rev. Dudley of the Christian church.

The bride is a graduate of the Blanchard high school and has been one of the successful teachers of the county. Mr. Gardner, the son of William Gardner, is also a graduate of the same school and is engaged in the profession of teaching.

They received many valuable and beautiful presents. A sumptuous repast was served, such as Mrs. James Bechdel alone knows how to cateress, after which the newly married couple left amid showers of rice, old shoes, ringing of bells and the good wishes of their many friends, on the 1:51 train for Buffalo, Niagara Falls and other places of interest on the lakes. They will return after a trip of two weeks and make their home with the bride's parents.

The Poor Editor.

The stork disappears and we look into the cradle and behold a male child. After running the gauntlet of measles, mumps and chickenpox he enters school. At the age of ten he is the terror of the neighborhood. At twelve he is an apprentice in a printing office. At eighteen he has acquired two cases of long primer type and an Army press and is editor of a country newspaper. At twenty he is married. At thirty he is baldheaded, stoop shouldered and is the father of a large family. At thirty he is a corpse in a cheap pine coffin, and as 500 delinquent subscribers file past his bier for the last time they are heard to say, "He was a good fellow, but he couldn't save his money."—Lockwood, (Mo.,) Times.

BULWER'S ODDITIES.

The Fight the Author Made Against Signs of Old Age.

Bulwer's appearance was decidedly what is generally understood by "aristocratic" or what the French call "distingue." Tall, slim, with finely cut features, prominent among which was a long aquiline nose, with an abundant crop of curly brown hair and a full beard, the first impression he produced, aided by a careful toilet, was one of ease and elegance. At a dinner table, where he liked to speak, and, if possible, to speak alone, he was certainly useful as well as ornamental with his large blue ribbon and star of the Order of the Bath. There was a certain naivete, strange as that word may sound when applied to so confirmed a man of the world, in his vain and very apparent struggle against the irresistible encroachment of age. He did not give in with that philosophical resignation which might have been expected of one so clever and in some respects so wise. He fought against it tooth and nail. Lord Lytton's hair seemed dyed, and his face looked as if art had been called in to rejuvenate it. A quack in Paris had pretended to cure his growing deafness, a constant source of legitimate grief to him. He was radiant one autumn on his return to town because he thought he was cured, but not for long. The copious use of snuff was no doubt part of the attempted cure, of which the most palpable results were large dark red or blue pocket handkerchiefs, quite out of harmony with his otherwise elegant toilet. His expressions of regret at his impaired digestive organs had something ludicrous about it. He would point with a sigh to a rosy cheeked American apple and say, "To think that there are people who can eat that!"

One of his physical infirmities—his deafness—proved a bar to his ambition. He was sorely disappointed when Lord Beaconsfield, instead of including him in his last cabinet, "kicked him upstairs" into the house of lords, principally because he could not follow the debate.—Rudolph Lehman's "Recollections."

CARE OF BOOKS.

Marginal notes are usually superfluous and undesirable.

Corners should not be turned down or leaves folded in halves.

Exposing books to heat or strong sunlight warps the binding.

Never bend back the covers of a book, but keep them both level.

Do not turn a book on its face or place any weight on an open book.

Never open a large book from the ends or cover, but from the center.

Bookcases should not be placed against outside walls on account of the probable dampness.

A blunt knife of ivory, wood or metal should be used for cutting new books, not a sharp instrument.

If any liquid be spilt on a book, wipe it off at once gently with a soft cloth or absorb it with blotting paper. Do not dry it by a fire.

Dragging a book out from the shelf by the binding at the top is hurtful. If books are wedged in too tightly in a case they become shabby.

American Manners.

The average American man is so much more polite, agreeable and considerate to the average woman that all other men seem rough and indifferent by comparison. In this department if in no other the American man has no rival. He is the best mannered creature in the world to the casual human being—especially female human being—he brushes elbows with in the course of the day's march. He doesn't use half as many "Thank yous" as the French or bow and smile so much, but he will give himself trouble to open doors, to hail carriages, to get up and offer his seat in omnibuses, to help beparceled women on to trains and hold the baby while the mother helps off the rest of her offspring.—New York World.

Wasson—McDowell.

Howard Bruce Wasson and Miss Mary McDowell were married at the residence of the bride's parents in Pitteburg, Thursday, June 8th, at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, Rev. T. N Eaton officiating. The bridesmaid was Miss Fergie and the best man Le Roy Wasson. The matrons of honor were Mrs. R. T. McDowell and Mrs. S. H. Murphy. The bride wore a white French muslin and carried roses. A reception and luncheon followed, thirty-five guests being in attendance. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Wasson left for New York city where they will spend their honeymoon. Returning they will reside at 705 Mulberry street, Pittsburg. The groom was formerly a Centre countian and his many friends here join in extending congratulations.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

DON'T BE WOOZY!

NERO

was a most crafty Roman, but he made one mistake.

He committed suicide at the wrong end of his life,

He should have shuffled off at the beginnung.

A great many business men today are committing business suicide at the wrong end of their lives.

They mean well at the start, but drift away from their good resolutions

One means of a long and prosperous business life is to have good printing and stationery.

A business is judged by its reading matter.

THE REPUBLICAN

Job Printing Department is prepared to furnish the best.

Cost is a secondary consideration when you consider the quality—sufficient it is to say our prices are so reasonable that it would be a waste of shoe leather to look further.

It has a distinctiveness all its own—a something that distinguishes it from the common trash of the ordinary shop.

Again we say:

"Don't be Woozy."

Think it over and for your next order, remember the —Many a girl of fifteen eats the breakfast her mother has prepared, goes up stairs and probably makes her bed and tidies up her room and then starts out, sometimes taking two hours to buy a spool of thread. She eats the dinner her mother has made, spends the afternoon reading a story book or gadding the streets with her friends, eats the supper her mother has prepared and spends the evenings with her girl friends. She has done nothing wicked all day, and her mother is satisfied that she is bringing her up right. But is she?

—It's summer in earnest now but the earlier cool weather recalls the fact that the summer of 1816 was the coolest ever known in the United States. There are a few persons living in Bellefonte who were born previous to 1816, but they have no recollection of it. Frost and ice were common in June and July 5th ice was formed. Vegetation was killed, and people and animals suffered much. The fires had to be kept up all the summer and heavy clothing was worn by men in the harvest fields. The truth of these assertions is well authenticated by accurate records.

—The West Ward of Bellefonte can boast of heroes as well as poets and politicians, since Thursday last when Arthur Thomas saved the life of a lady who was walking along the P. R. R. track near the depot. The lady was hard of hearing and did not know the yard engine was approaching, although it whistled loudly and several men called to her warning her of her danger. Arthur Thomas seeing the woman's peril, sprang forward and pulled her from the track just in the nick of time. On Friday afternoon Isaac Thomas Sr., stopped a runaway horse in its mad course down Thomas street. It belonged to a college student who had left it tied in front of Meek's residence The horse frightened at a train and broke loose and ran away.

Our Naval Secretary.

Collier's for June 17 says:

Barking against Mr. Bonaparte as Secretary of the Navy, because he is independent in local politics shows the penury to which partisan enthusiasts are frequently reduced in the matter of intelligence. Even if the new Secretary had been a Democrat in national elections, the crime of putting him in the Cabinet would have seemed to us not among the most heinous, but as he is a thorough Republican it is doubly ridiculous to see his impartial hostility to both machines in Maryland, forcing politicians to brand him as a Democrat. One of the things we most need to learn, if we are to have honest State and City Governments in the United States, is that Mayors, Aldermen, State legislators, Governors ane Commissioners of Public Works are to be judged not from their views of Thomas Jefferson, the Philippines, tariff reform, or diplomacy in the Orient, but from their honesty and fitness for the task with which they are intrusted. Few men of our time have made this distinction more successfully than Mr. Bonaparte. He has been member of a party without being irrelevantly and foolishly a partisan. His standards of civic life are high, he is eminent in his profession, fearless in his acts, and of such general intelligence that he will do something to stem the degeneracy of the Cabinet since McKinley's death. He agrees with the President about the navy, although his voice is not as rancous, and altogether the selection is one in which the country should rejoice

PROCLAMATION.

Considerable interest is being taken in cities and boroughs of the Commonwealth, relative to the firing or throwing of fire-crackers, fire balls, squibs, torpedo balls, or other fire works, and more especially to the firing of pistols, by reason of the fact that one year ago many deaths resulted from injuries sustained in the careless use of the same. Up to this time in the various municipalities of this State many arrests have been made for the illegal sale of pistols and fire-crackers, as well as for the premature use of the same, as provided by the law of the State and the Ordinance of municipalities.

Under the Ordinances of the Borough of Bellefonte, as well as under the law of the State, notice is hereby given to all citizens that they are not allowed to use or fire any fire works of any nature Whatever, within the limits of the Borough of Bellefonte, EXCEPT on Tuesday, July 4th, 1905. The maximum penalty will be imposed upon any one violating the provisions of the Ordinance or not complying with this notice.

All good citizens, desirous of preserving life as well as good order are respectfully asked to inform upon and prosecute to conviction any and all offenders of the Ordinance of the Boro.

Given under my hand and official seal of the Borough of Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, this 20th day of June A. D. 1905.

Burgess.

The Season's Delight.

Once more the picnic season dawns when man deserts the city lawn and hies him to the woodland wide where nature sweet and bugs abide.

He takes his wife and children now;
his best girl if he has no frau; they seek the country far away and sweat and work and call it play.

Around a basket full of lunch they gather in a merry bunch and eat cold tongue and soggy pies, which at their homes they would despise.

When he reclines on grassy banks, and ants crawl up his nervous shanks and down his poor protesting back the insects make a half mile track.

Anon the baby finds a snake; the mother's screams the echos wake; the father stamps it with his heels and like an echo straightway feels.

To cinch the pleasure that they seek the oldest boy falls in the creek; wild flowers the daughter goes to pull and gets chased by a peevish bull.

A thunder shower then drifts their way
—it always rains on picnic day. Umbrellas leak, the rain gets in and wets them to the very skin.

The sporty dude of manners shy, sits down upon a custard pie; he must perform this pleasing feat or else the day is not complete.

Space is too small, the list too great, things charming to enumerate; enough to say glad hours flit in endless joy and pleasure—nit.

Declared a Nuisance.

When a brand new pest makes its appearance, like the boll weevil, which has spread over the western half of the cotton belt, people promptly declare war against it, and through state and national agencies spend thousands of dollars in pushing a vigorous campaign. But an old pest like the house fly they take as a matter of course, and even argue that it is of real usefulness as a scavenger, and so deserves to be tolerated.

Present-day experiments show that the house fly, of which there are many varieties, does many times as much damage as he can do good. He doubtless carries the germs of typhoid fever, besides proving in many ways a first-class nuisance. The time is perhaps not far distant when the community will see what it can do to limit his activities. Nor is that task hopeless.

Were it not for the fly and the mosquito window and door screens would be unnecessary. In certain carefully kept residential sections, where there are no stables near, it is possible to dispense with screens. This suggests some comforts for the towns in the age of the horseless carriage. Cities like Venice and Hongkong, which have no horses, have comparatively few flies.

Greater cleanliness in the care of stables in the country, and their location farther from dwelling houses, will do much to mitigate the fly nuisance. Still, this pest will not readily be "downed." His spread over nearly all latitudes proves him a determined fighter. The government entomologists estimates that summer is long enough for twelve generations to develop and that the average fly lays one hundred and twenty eggs. Its resources for battle are thus large. But man does not have to fight unaided. The house centipede and certain predatory beetles carry off much larger numbers of flies than do the trap or sticky paper.—Youth's Companion.

The Proper Thing to do.

The following advice, taken from an exchange, is given for the benefit of those who need it: "If there is any chance to boom business, boom it. Don't pull a long face and look as though you had a sour stomach. Hold up your head, smile and look for better things. Hide your little hammer and try to speak well of others, no matter how small you really know yourself to be. When a stranger drops in, jolly him, tell him this is the greatest town on earth, and it is. Don't discourage him by speaking ill of your neighbors. Lead him to believe that he has at last struck a place where white people live. Don't knock. Help yourself along by becoming popular, and push your friends with you. It's dead easy. Be a good fellow, and soon you will have a procession of followers. No man ever helped himself by knocking other people down in the character of business. No man ever got rich by trying to make others believe he was the only man in town who knew anything. You can't climb the ladder of success by treading on other people's corns. Keep off the corns and don't knock.
